LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

Department of the Interior,
Bureau of Education,
Washington, D. C., May 5, 1925.

Sir: There are in the United States a large number of agencies which for a number of years have been accrediting or approving secondary schools on the basis of certain standards which have been established. Chief among these agencies are the regional educational associations, such as the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and the State departments of education in the respective States. The objects of these agencies in compiling lists of approved secondary schools are numerous; they include use by colleges which admit students on the certificate plan. The number of secondary schools in the United States is now so large that it has become increasingly necessary for higher institutions to have accurate information at hand concerning the status of every high school from which students seek admission to college. Upon four occasions in the past the Bureau of Education has brought together in bulletin form the lists of approved secondary schools which have been compiled by the respective accrediting agencies. These bulletins have proved to be very useful, but owing to the numerous changes in the lists from year to year, it is desirable that the bulletin should be revised periodically. The accompanying manuscript contains such a revision, based on the latest information received from the several accrediting agencies. I recommend that it be published as a bulletin of the Bureau of Education.

Respectfully submitted.

Jno. J. Tigert,
Commissioner.

The Secretary of the Interior.

ACCREDITED SECONDARY SCHOOLS IN THE UNITED STATES

The American high school is a growing institution. Since the organization of the first public high school in Boston in 1821, this type of secondary school has grown in number until there are more than 19,000 to-day. In addition to these public high schools, there are about 2,500 private high schools and academies and more than 300 preparatory departments of universities and colleges. New junior high schools are added continually.

The number of public high school students has increased from 202,963 in 1890 to 2,873,009 in 1922—a growth of more than fourteen-fold in less than a generation. If to this latter number are added those enrolled in private high schools, those in preparatory departments of universities and colleges, and those taking secondary courses in normal schools and teachers colleges, the total secondary enrollment for 1922 is 3,204,141.

To a large majority of secondary students, the modern high school is their final school; to others it is a preparatory school, an intermediate step between the elementary school and college. Of every 1,000 students enrolled in the first five grades of the elementary school, 342 enter high school, 139 graduate from high school, and 72 go on to college; those who attend normal schools, teachers colleges, and other institutions of higher education may be added to the last number. For these 72, the list of accredited high schools is a necessity. For the other 67 who complete the high-school course and do not enter college, and the 203 who drop out before graduation from high school, a well-selected high school becomes a matter of vital importance.

This bulletin, similar in arrangement, content, and design to those published in 1913, 1915, 1916, and 1922, is intended to meet the needs not only of such students, but of officers charged with the control of secondary schools and higher institutions, and State examining and certifying boards as well.

ACCREDITED SECONDARY SCHOOL DEFINED

"An accredited secondary school," as the term is used in this bulletin, is a school which is equipped to prepare students for colleges requiring 15 units for unconditioned admission and which has been investigated or approved for this purpose by one of the following agencies: A State officer of education, a university or college inspector or committee on admissions, an officer or committee of an accrediting association.

In the majority of the schools in Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina, Texas, and Virginia, and in a few cities in other States, high-school courses are based upon seven years of elementary training. In all other places these 15 units represent secondary work above the standard eight-grade elementary school course. As a general rule the curriculum of an accredited school represents four years of 36 or more weeks each; at least three teachers give their whole time to high-school work,[1] and the school keeps up an adequate library and laboratory equipment.

UNIT DEFINED

The following authoritative definition of the word "unit" has been made by the national conference committee on standards of colleges and secondary schools, which was formerly composed of representatives of the National Association of State Universities, the New England College Entrance Certificate Board, the College Entrance Examination Board, the Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools of the Middle States and Maryland, the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Southern States, the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the Association of American Colleges, the Association of Urban Universities, the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, and the United States Commissioner of Education:

A unit represents a year's study in any subject in a secondary school, constituting approximately a quarter of a full year's work.

This statement is designed to afford a standard of measurement for the work done in secondary schools. It takes—

(1) The four-year high-school course as a basis and assumes that—
(2) The length of the school year is from 36 to 40 weeks; that—
(3) A period is from 40 to 60 minutes in length; and that—
(4) The study is pursued four or five periods a week;

but under ordinary circumstances a satisfactory year's work in any subject can not be accomplished in less than 120 sixty-minute hours, or their equivalent. Schools organized on any other than a four-year basis can nevertheless estimate their work in terms of this unit.

A four-year secondary-school curriculum should be regarded as representing not more than 16 units of work.

[1] Exceptions are certain schools in the lists of Georgia, Kansas, Kentucky, Montana, and Nebraska which do not conform in every particular to the definition but are approved by the State officials. Also see table on university admission requirements.

VARIATIONS IN REQUIREMENTS OF ACCREDITING AGENCIES

The number of subjects recognized by the various accrediting bodies as forming an acceptable part of the college preparatory course varies greatly; for example, the subjects recognized by the College Entrance Examination Board as permissible in a standard high-school course are:[2]

	Units		Units
English	3	Italian	2–4
Mathematics	3–4½	Spanish	2–4
Latin	2–4	History	1–4
Greek	2–3	Science	1–4
French	2–4	Drawing	1–2
German	2–4

On the other hand, there are State universities and privately endowed institutions, like Leland Stanford University, which permit great enlargement of the range of electives. The University of California, for example, accepts the following:

	Units		Units
English	2–4	Physical geography	1
History	1–4	Elementary physical science	1
Laboratory science	1–5	Drawing	1–2
Mathematics	½–4½	Mechanic arts	½–3
Greek	½–4	Agriculture	½–3
Latin	1–5	Home economics	½–3
French	1–5	Music	1–4
German	1–5	Bookkeeping	1
Spanish	1–5	Stenography and typewriting	1–2
Physiology and hygiene	1	Military science and tactics	½

Chicago University has but one specific requirement, that of 3 units of English. The others, to make 15, may be selected from groups. All specify 15 or more units, except the University of Maine, which admits with 14½. None requires more than 16 units for admission.

The requirements of each voluntary accrediting agency are briefly stated at the head of the list of schools which it accredits. At the head of each list of schools are summarized the requirements for admission to the A. B. course of the State university. The schools on the accredited list generally have the privilege of certificating students to other courses as well. To outline the admission requirements for all these courses would consume much space and might lead to confusion. The requirements for admission to the A. B. course may in each case be considered fairly typical of the institution's policy with respect to entrance requirements.

[2] It should be noted, however, that the maximum amount of credit which a high-school student can secure in any single subject in a year is ordinarily one unit. Four units of credit in any given subject would therefore constitute the normal maximum for a high-school course.

METHODS OF ACCREDITING

Two methods are in common use for carrying on the system of accrediting in those States where the State authority embraces agencies for higher education. Under the first, the inspection of the work of the high schools is done through an officer or committee of the State university, and the list of acceptable or accredited high schools is published in the catalogue of the university and thus made available for other institutions within the same State or for institutions in neighboring States. Under the second, the inspection and rating are done by the State superintendent of public instruction, the State board of education, or the State education office, acting through specially appointed officers. Examples of the former method are furnished by the Universities of California, Nebraska, and Wisconsin; of the latter method, by the States of New York, Ohio, and Iowa.

The requirement of a completion of a standard four-year high-school course representing 15 units for admission to college, or as a part of the prescription for admission to professional schools or to the practice of professions, has produced a group of organizations among whose activities are the coordination of standards of secondary education in neighboring States and the compilation of lists of accredited secondary schools. Such sectional organizations are now at work in the North Central States, Northwestern States, New England, Middle States, and Maryland, and the Southern States. These organizations are purely voluntary and have no legal control over the institutions which they rate. The influence which they wield, however, because of the fact that they focus representative educational opinion in their respective sections, is considerable. Occasionally, also, private institutions, like the University of Chicago, have carried on their own investigation and accrediting.

For convenience in making comparisons, tables are presented showing accrediting requirements and university admission requirements by States.

DIVISIONS OF THE BULLETIN

Part I: State lists.—The bulletin is divided into two parts. The first part contains lists of schools accredited by State universities and State officers of education. Sometimes both the State university and the State department of education publish lists of accredited schools.[3] When the State department of education or the State university publishes lists of accredited or approved high schools of different grades, only schools of the first grade are included in the bulletin, except in the case of California, Delaware, Georgia, Kansas, Kentucky, Nebraska, and North Dakota.[4]

Part II: Lists of accrediting associations.—Part II contains the lists of the four principal associations which undertake to accredit schools. The methods or standards of these associations are not identical. The list accredited by each is preceded by a statement of the basis upon which it is compiled.

The schools are listed alphabetically, according to the towns in which they are located. The names of accredited private secondary schools and academies are printed in italics.

[3] In Minnesota, the State education department accredits or approves only public schools, but private schools having the requisite standards and equipment are accredited by the State university.

[4] Schools in Division B of the University of California are accredited. Their continued accrediting, however, is rendered somewhat uncertain by undeveloped organization, inadequate resources, unsatisfactory standards, or other causes.

In Delaware, schools are divided into classes according to number of pupils, number of teachers, and value of apparatus, the larger and better equipped schools being in the first class. Both classes given are accredited by the State university.

The schools in Group II of the Georgia list, though weak in laboratory, library, and sometimes teaching staff, are fully accredited by the University of Georgia, and are therefore included in the bulletin.

Class B schools in Kansas have at least four teachers in the high school, including superintendent or principal, at least four teachers in the grades, and at least nine months of school in the grades. Class C schools have three teachers in the high school, three in the grades, and nine months of school in the grades. Class D schools have at least two teachers giving entire time in the high school and three teachers in the grades.

Accredited high schools in Kentucky in Class B must meet practically the same requirements as Class A schools, except with respect to the number and qualification of teachers and the value of library and scientific apparatus.

For the convenience of smaller communities the University of Nebraska has established a list of minor accredited schools, the graduates of which may receive 28 points on credentials, giving them conditional admission to college. This condition is canceled when 30 hours of college work are completed.

In North Dakota, schools are divided into classes according to number of pupils, number of teachers, and value of apparatus, the larger and better equipped schools being in the first class. Graduates from all three classes are admitted unconditionally to the University of North Dakota.

TENNESSEE

High Schools Approved by the State Department of Education and Accepted by the University of Tennessee for the Year Ending June 30, 1923

The State Department of Education grades the high schools of the State as A-1, A, B, and C. As the graduates of all A-1, A, and B high schools are admitted unconditionally to the freshman class of the University of Tennessee, these three classes have been combined. Since, however, the graduates of class C schools are admitted to the university on trial, the schools in this grade have been omitted, as it is the purpose to include in the bulletin only such schools as prepare their graduates to meet fully the entrance requirements of the State university.

PART II.—LISTS OF SCHOOLS ACCREDITED BY VARIOUS ASSOCIATIONS

COMMISSION OF THE ASSOCIATION OF COLLEGES AND SECONDARY SCHOOLS OF THE SOUTHERN STATES

The minimum standard for accrediting shall be:

(a) No school shall be accredited which does not require for graduation the completion of a four-year high-school course of study embracing 16 units as defined by this association. A unit represents a year's study in any subject in a secondary school, constituting approximately a quarter of a full year's work. More than 20 periods per week should be discouraged.

(b) The minimum scholastic attainment required of the faculty of any accredited secondary school on the southern list is that not less than 75 per cent of the total number of teachers of academic subjects, including the principal and teachers of agriculture and home economics, shall hold bachelor's degrees, or the equivalent, from a college approved by the association. Teachers should have had professional training or at least one year's experience in teaching.

(c) The maximum teaching load of any teacher shall be 750 pupil-periods per week with not more than five daily recitations. The commission will with extreme care scrutinize any school with instructors teaching as many as six daily periods. In interpreting this standard a double period in laboratory, shop, or two periods of study-room supervision shall be counted as the equivalent of one recitation period.

(d) The laboratory and library facilities shall be adequate for the needs of instruction in the courses taught. The library should have 500 volumes exclusive of duplicates and Government publications.

(e) The location and construction of the buildings, the lighting, heating, and ventilation of the rooms, the nature of the lavatories, corridors, water supply, school furniture, apparatus, and methods of cleaning shall be such as to insure hygienic conditions for both pupils and teachers.

(f) The efficiency of instruction, the acquired habits of thought and speech, and the general intellectual and moral tone of a school are paramount factors; and, therefore, only schools which rank well in these particulars, as evidenced by rigid, thoroughgoing, systematic inspection, shall be considered eligible for the list.

(g) The commission will decline to consider any school whose teaching force consists of fewer than four teachers of academic subjects giving their full time to high-school instruction. When local conditions warrant the introduction of vocational subjects, such as agriculture, manual training, household arts, and commercial subjects, the commission will hold that a sufficient number of teachers must be employed and proper equipment added to provide adequately for such instruction.

(h) No school shall be considered unless the regular annual blank furnished for the purpose shall have been filled out and placed on file with the inspector. In case of schools having 12, or more teachers, a complete report on teachers once in three years will be sufficient, but full data relative to changes must be presented annually.

(i) All schools whose records show an excessive number of pupils per teacher, as based on the average number belonging, even though they may technically meet all other requirements, will be rejected. The association recognizes 30 as a maximum.

(j) The time for which schools are accredited shall be limited to one year, dating from the time of the adoption of the list by the association. In every case the character of the work done by a school must be the determining factor in accrediting. By personal visits of the inspectors, by detailed reports from the principals, and by the records made by the students in colleges, the character of a school's work shall be, from time to time, determined. A school shall be removed from the accredited list for failure to maintain the above standards.

(k) The commission recommends $900 as the minimum salary for teachers.

ASSOCIATION OF COLLEGES AND SECONDARY SCHOOLS OF THE MIDDLE STATES AND MARYLAND

Standards for Secondary Schools

I. ORGANIZATION AND ADMINISTRATION

Standard 1. A school to be accredited shall require for graduation the completion of a four-year secondary school course covering 15 units. A unit is defined as a year's work in one subject requiring approximately one-fourth of the student's time. It includes in the aggregate not less than 120 sixty-minute hours of prepared classroom work. The minimum length of a recitation period shall be 40 minutes exclusive of time used in the changing of classes or teachers. The association recommends a school year consisting of at least 36 weeks. Small classes, the distribution of the secondary school course over a period of more than four years, or excellence of results as measured under standard 2 shall compensate for a school year shorter than 36 weeks.

Standard 2. The efficiency of instruction, the acquired habits of thought and study, and the general intellectual and moral level of a school are paramount factors in determining its standing; therefore only schools which rank high in these qualities, as shown through systematic, competent, sympathetic inspection, or by achievement of their graduates in higher institutions, shall be considered eligible for the accredited list.

Standard 3. The association will hold that a sufficient number of qualified teachers must be provided to care adequately for all instruction offered. Not less than the equivalent of the full teaching time of three teachers may be given to academic subjects.

II. PREPARATION OF TEACHERS

Standard 4. The standard of preparation for a teacher of academic subjects shall be the completion of a four-year course in a college approved by this association or in a college of equal rank. Due consideration shall be given to teachers with other than this preparation who have demonstrated their ability through successful experience, provided that at least three-fourths of the teachers of academic subjects meet the standards of preparation.

Teachers should have had professional training or should have had successful teaching experience.

A school to be accredited shall have a salary schedule which is sufficient to secure teachers with the foregoing qualifications.

III. THE TEACHING LOAD

Standard 5. The number of daily periods of classroom instruction for a teacher should not exceed five. A school requiring of any teacher more than six teaching periods a day, or a daily teaching load of more than 150 pupil periods, must justify under standard 2 the deviation from this standard.

In interpreting this standard a double period of laboratory work or of study-room supervision may be counted as the equivalent of one period of teaching.

Standard 6. No school with an excessive number of pupils per teacher based on average attendance shall be accredited. The association recommends 30 as a maximum.

IV. PROGRAM OF STUDIES

Standard 7. The association recommends that every accredited school offer units of work in English, mathematics, foreign languages, social and natural sciences, practical and fine arts, and physical education. Vocational subjects should be offered where local conditions permit.

V. PHYSICAL EQUIPMENT

Standard 8. The location, construction and care of school buildings and the equipment shall be such as to insure hygienic conditions for both pupils and teachers.

Standard 9. The laboratory and the library facility shall be adequate to the needs of instruction in the subject taught.

[The commission on secondary schools appointed by the association has not as yet formulated a list of accredited schools, although it hopes that it may be able to publish such a list within a year]

NEW ENGLAND COLLEGE ENTRANCE CERTIFICATE BOARD

Members of the board: Amherst College, Bates College, Boston University, Bowdoin College, Brown University, Colby College, Massachusetts Agricultural College, Middlebury College, Tufts College, Wesleyan University, Williams College.

CONDITIONS OF APPROVAL

A school to be approved by the board must—

(1) Give satisfactory evidence as to curriculum, staff of teachers, and equipment.

(2) Be able to prepare for college according to some one of the recognized plans for entering a college represented on the board.

(3) Have a candidate for admission for the ensuing year at some college represented on the board.

(4) Have sent on examination, within a period of three years preceding the time of application, at least two students to one or more of the colleges represented on the board, except as provided for below in paragraph (b).

(a) In the case of a school whose application for approval has been rejected by the board because of the poor records of students sent to college, or whose certificate privilege has been withdrawn for the same reason, three satisfactory students must have been sent within the period of three years to one or more of the colleges represented on the board before a new application for approval will be considered. If four full years from the date of the rejection have elapsed, the application may be treated as if from a school which had not previously applied for approval. A school that has been dropped from the list because of poor record may, however, be placed on the "specimen" list a year later if the committee on schools so recommends (on account of a change of principal or for other good reason) and if the board unanimously accepts the recommendation; and an approved school that sends no pupils within three years to any of the colleges represented on the board will be transferred to the same "specimen" list. (See next paragraph.)

(b) A school which has not sent within the required time at least two students, but which meets with the approval of the board in respect to curriculum, staff of teachers, and equipment, may, for the purpose of showing its standard of certification, send one or more students on certificate to one or more of the colleges represented on the board, providing the names of the students and the name of the college which each proposed to enter are sent to the secretary of the board in advance. The name of the school in this case will not appear in the list of approved schools, and final action on the application will not be taken until the board receives the report of the students referred to above. At least two satisfactory students must be sent in order to entitle the school to be placed on the trial list. A school on this list that sends no pupils within six years to any of the colleges represented on the board will be dropped from the list.

TRIAL LIST

A school when first approved is placed on a trial list. If the record made by its candidates in the colleges represented on the board is satisfactory, it is then placed on the approved list.

PERIOD OF APPROVAL

A school may be approved for one, two, or three years. The approval dates from the first day of January of the year in which approval is granted.

NORTH CENTRAL ASSOCIATION OF COLLEGES AND SECONDARY SCHOOLS

Standards for Accrediting Secondary Schools Adopted March 21, 1924

A. BUILDINGS

Standard 1. The location and construction of the buildings, the lighting, heating, and ventilation of the rooms, the nature of the lavatories, corridors, closets, water supply, school furniture, apparatus, and methods of cleaning shall be such as to insure hygienic conditions for both pupils and teachers.

B. LIBRARY AND LABORATORIES

Standard 2. The library and laboratory facilities must be adequate to meet the needs of instruction in all courses offered. The library should be classified and catalogued, and an annual inventory should be made of laboratory and shop equipment.

C. RECORDS

Standard 3. Accurate and complete records of attendance and scholarship must be kept in such form as to be conveniently used and safely preserved.

D. REQUIREMENTS FOR GRADUATION

Standard 4. No school shall be accredited which does not require 15 units for graduation. The school year shall consist of a minimum of 36 weeks. The minimum length of a recitation period shall be 40 minutes, exclusive of all time used in changing of classes or teachers.

A unit course of study in a secondary school is defined as a course covering an academic year that shall include in the aggregate not less than the equivalent of 120 sixty-minute hours of classroom work—two hours of shop or laboratory work being equivalent to one hour of prepared classroom work.

E. INSTRUCTION AND SPIRIT

Standard 5. The efficiency of instruction, the acquired habits of thought and study, and the general intellectual and moral tone of a school are paramount factors; therefore only schools that rank well in these particulars, as evidenced by rigid, thoroughgoing, sympathetic inspection, shall be considered eligible for the list.

F. SALARIES

Standard 6. No school shall hereafter be accredited whose salary schedule is not sufficient to command and retain teachers whose qualifications are such as required by this association. The interpretation of this requirement shall be a matter of special responsibility for the State committee.

G. PREPARATION OF TEACHERS

Standard 7. All schools accredited by the association shall maintain the following standards respecting teachers:

(a) The minimum attainments of a teacher of any academic subject, and of the supervisors of teachers of such subjects, shall be equivalent to graduation from a college belonging to the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Such requirements shall not be construed as retroactive while the teacher remains in the same city high-school system.

It is recommended that, as far as possible, teachers be assigned according to their major subjects in collegiate preparation.

(b) The minimum professional training of a teacher of any academic subject, and the supervisors of teachers of such subjects, shall be 11 semester hours in education. After September 1, 1925, this requirement shall be 15 semester hours in education. This additional requirement shall not be construed as retroactive.

The association recommends the following types of courses as meeting the spirit of this standard: Educational psychology, principles of secondary education, theory of teaching, special methods in subjects taught, observation and practice of teaching, history of education, educational sociology, and school administration and supervision.

H. THE TEACHING LOAD

Standard 8. Factors conditioning the efficiency of instruction are: (1) The pupil-teacher ratio, as shown by the average daily attendance; (2) the number of classes taught by the teachers; (3) the number of student hours per teacher; (4) the number of students in a class. The association recommends the following as norms: (1) Pupil-teacher ratio, 25; (2) the number of classes taught by the teacher, 5 daily; (3) the number of student hours per teacher, 150 per day; (4) the number of students in a class, 25.

An average attendance in excess of 30 pupils per teacher, or more than 160 pupil hours per teacher per day, or more than six periods per day for any teacher, shall be considered as a violation of this standard.

For interpreting this standard in connection with laboratory work in science, and in connection with study-room supervision, a double period may be counted as the equivalent of one classroom exercise for teachers of academic subjects, provided that no combination of such work amounting to more than 35 periods a week be required of any teacher.

I. THE PUPIL LOAD

Standard 9. Four unit courses, or the equivalent as defined in standard 4, shall be considered the normal amount of work to be carried for credit by the average or medium students. Only those students who have made passing grades in each subject studied during the preceding term, and who rank in the upper 25 per cent of their classes, may be allowed to take more than four units for credit.

J. THE PROGRAM OF STUDIES

Standard 10. The association recommends that every accredited school offer units of work in mathematics, social sciences, languages (including English), natural sciences, the fine arts, and physical training. It further recommends the introduction of vocational subjects such as agriculture, manual training, household economics, and commercial subjects into schools where local conditions render such introduction feasible. The association will hold that a sufficient number of qualified teachers must be provided to care adequately for all instruction offered. Not less than the equivalent of the full teaching time of three teachers may be given to academic subjects.

NORTHWEST ASSOCIATION OF SECONDARY AND HIGHER SCHOOLS

The following constitute the tentative standards for accrediting secondary schools for the present year, April, 1924:

1. No school shall be accredited which does not require 15 units for graduation. More than 20 periods per week should be discouraged. The school year shall consist of a minimum of 36 weeks, such standard to be in effect on and after September 1, 1918.

(A unit course of study in a secondary school is defined as a course covering an academic year that shall include in the aggregate not less than the equivalent of 120 sixty-minute hours of classroom work, two hours of manual training or laboratory work being equivalent to one hour of classroom work.)

2. All teachers teaching one or more academic subjects must satisfy the following standards:

(a) The minimum attainment of teachers of any academic subject shall be equivalent to graduation from a college belonging to the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools and requiring the completion of a four-year course of study or 120 semester hours in advance of a standard four-year high school course. Such requirement shall not be construed as retroactive.

(b) The minimum professional training of teachers of any academic subject should be at least 11 semester hours in education. This should include special study of the subject matter and pedagogy of the subject to be taught. Such requirements shall not be construed as retroactive. (For the succeeding year the commission will interpret courses in education as the same courses are interpreted by the colleges or universities offering them.)

(c) If a teacher of one or more academic subjects new to a given school does not fully meet the requirements of standard 2, a and b, a statement concerning the training, experience, and efficiency of the said teacher, certified by the superintendent or principal, shall be presented by them to the inspector along with the annual report of the school; and the inspector shall submit the same to the commission on accrediting, together with his recommendation. The commission shall, on each case so presented, make a decision.

3. The number of daily periods of classroom instruction given by any teacher should not exceed five, each to extend over at least 40 minutes exclusive of all time used in the changing of classes or teachers. The commission on accrediting will reject all schools having more than six recitation periods per day for any teacher.

The association holds that no teacher should be required to conduct more than 30 classroom exercises or recitations a week, while it advises that the maximum should be 25 exercises a week.

For interpeting this standard in connection with laboratory work in science and in vocational subjects as hereafter defined and in connection with study-room supervision, a double period may be counted as the equivalent of one classroom exercise, provided that no combination of such work amounting to more than 35 periods a week be required of any teacher.

4. The laboratory and library facilities shall be adequate to the needs of instruction in the subjects taught.

5. The location and construction of the buildings, the lighting, heating, and ventilation of the rooms, the nature of the lavatories, corridors, closets, water supply, school furniture, apparatus, and methods of cleaning shall be such as to insure hygienic conditions for both pupils and teachers.

6. The efficiency of instruction, the acquired habits of thought and study, and the general intellectual and moral tone of a school are paramount factors, and therefore only schools which rank well in these particulars, as evidenced by rigid, thoroughgoing, sympathetic inspection, shall be considered eligible for the list.

7. The association will decline to consider any school whose teaching force consists of fewer than four teachers of academic subjects, exclusive of the superintendent. The association recommends the introduction of the so-called vocational subjects, such as agriculture, manual training, household arts, and commercial subjects into schools where local conditions render such instruction feasible, but the commission will hold that a sufficient number of qualified teachers must be added to provide adequately for such instruction.

8. No school shall be considered unless the regular annual blank furnished for the purpose shall have been filled out and placed on file with the commission. Schools in good standing will make a complete report on teachers once in five years, but full data relative to changes should be presented annually.

9. No school whose record shows an excessive number of pupils per teacher, based on average attendance, shall be accredited. The association recommends 25 as a maximum. No recitation class should enroll more than 30 pupils.

The time for which schools are accredited shall be limited to one year, dating from the time of the adoption of the list by the association.

The association is conservative, believing that such policy will eventually work to the highest interests of all. It aims to accredit only those schools which possess organization, teaching force, standards of scholarship, equipment, and esprit de corps of such character as will unhesitatingly commend them to any educator, college, or university in the northwest territory.
